Good afternoon,

As we are moving along with teaching and learning in this remote setting for the first half of the semester, we recognize that students need additional supplies and materials to effectively engage in several of their courses. In some cases, your student may be in a course where we do not have an electronic textbook, workbook or lab book for reference; your student may need a musical instrument; or your student may need art or cooking supplies, to name a few examples.

In order to get these materials out to our students in the most efficient manner, we are going to use a Remote Learning Planning Day on Tuesday, September 8. Pick up times will be scheduled for students beginning at 8:00 am on Tuesday and will run through 5:00 pm. Additional opportunities to pick up materials will be on Wednesday (9/9) from 12:30 – 6:30 pm and on Thursday (9/10) and Friday (9/11) by appointment.

- Your high school will notify you if you have materials to pick up and when to come to school.
- When you arrive, we will take your temperature and ask you three COVID screening questions.
- We ask that you wear a mask for the entire time you are at school and maintain 6' social distancing at all times.

Students will not be following their schedule on Tuesday; however, they can be expected to have some instructional work to do that day. Teachers and students will resume classroom instruction on Wednesday, September 9.

Sincerely,

Dr. Corinne Williams
Assistant Superintendent for Teaching & Learning
